Reaching new heights in the diagnosis and treatment of arthritis through research

Partnerships

In early 2013 we decided to showcase research in arthritis which is being carried out across Glasgow in an event called Rheumatosphere. We held the event at the Bodyworks exhibition which looks at the way our body functions and in particular has a significant section on musculoskeletal medicine and immunology. Colleagues from University of Glasgow, Glasgow Caledonian University and the NHS came together to run two "Meet the Expert" sessions at the Glasgow Science Centre which were attended by approximately 1500 individuals
